

Senate Favors a Compromise Farm Measure

By EDWIN B. HAAKINSON

WASHINGTON (AP) — A lopsided Senate vote revived prospects today that this session of Congress will pass a limited farm bill tailored to escape a presidential veto.

The compromise measure passed the Senate Friday night by a lopsided 62-11 margin after three days and nights of sometimes bitter debate. It now goes to the House, which earlier declined to consider a measure of broader proportions.

As passed by the Senate, the bill generally would provide for lower price supports and fewer government controls over farmers producing cotton, rice, corn and livestock feed grains. Larger output of those crops also would be authorized.

Secretary of Agriculture Benson hailed the Senate action as "a victory for sound principles and a long step in the direction of greater freedom for the nation's farmers."

A previous farm bill passed by the Congress, designed to freeze farm price supports, was vetoed by President Eisenhower March 31. He said to sign the bill "would be ill advised, from the standpoint both of the nation and of our farm families as well."

Despite numerous compromises written into the new bill, Sen. Allen J. Ellender (D-La.), chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee, succeeded in limiting the measure to provisions known to fit Benson's policies.

For example, it would scrap past unsuccessful attempts to control production of corn and other livestock feed grains, including grain sorghums, oats, rye and barley.

Instead, the bill would provide Benson with more flexible authority to lower the level of federal supports and reduce controls.

American Made Device to Help India

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

NEW DELHI (AP)—An American-designed device launched today may revolutionize the life of rural India.

It is an electric generator and pump powered by bullocks, India's main motive power for generations.

With Prime Minister Nehru looking on, a pilot unit went into operation in Khanpur village, 18 miles south of Delhi.

The project is under joint auspices of the Ford Foundation and India's Community Development Ministry. It cost $5,000, but mass production is expected to cut this to $3,000.

The unit can pump water to meet the needs of villages and irrigate 100 acres. The generator can deliver 4½ kilowatts of power.

The unit is the result of research of Leigh S. Stevens, 37, of Yemassee, S. C. He developed it after touring this country in 1954.

Today he heard Nehru express keen interest in the potentialities for India's 700,000 villages—where more than four-fifths the population live.

For centuries Indian cattle have pumped water by the Persian wheel, turning in a small circle and forcing up a maximum of 100 gallons of water a minute. The new unit triples the amount of water.

When a switch is thrown the bullocks go on working—but producing electric power which can be used immediately or stored.

Stevens said every part of the power unit can be produced in India.

The pump unit was designed and developed by the Texas Gas Transmission Co., while the generator was fitted by General Electric.

Norman E. Isaacs, managing editor of the Louisville Times, saw this project in preparation when he was in India recently. He said it was "potentially more important than the Sputnik."

TOOK OVER

The Romans began shipping olive oil to Spain more than 2,000 years ago. The Spaniards found it so useful for cooking, food and beauty purposes that they planted their own olive groves and today Spain is the world's largest producer of the oil.

Weather

ARKANSAS — Partly cloudy today and tomorrow with scattered showers mainly in east and south.

YOU NAME IT—We'll bet that, name or no name, it'll never get off the ground. A do-it-yourself project of U.S. Air Force Lt. Col. Edward H. Risher, this nameless vehicle is causing quite a stir in Wethersfield, England, where Colonel Risher is stationed. Beginning with a Ford Anglia chassis, Risher added, among other things, a cut-down Chevrolet hood, Austin Bantam wheels and the rear windshield from an American Ford. The balloon-shaped fenders and body? They were once wing tanks on a T-33 jet trainer.

News During the Week Both Good, Bad

Foreign News Commentary By CHARLES M. MCCANN

The week's good and bad news on the international balance sheet:

The Middle Eastern crisis dominated the news this week. A series of notes exchanged by the United States, Great Britain and France on one side and Soviet Russia on the other apparently insured that a "summit" conference will be held on the crisis—most probably within the next two weeks at United Nations headquarters in New York.

In the U. N. Security Council, Russia vetoed a Japanese resolution under which the U. N. observer force in Lebanon would have been reinforced to permit the early withdrawal of American troops.

Russia used its veto because the resolution did not insist that the troops be withdrawn at once.

In Lebanon itself, a meeting of the single-chamber Parliament, a which a new president was to be elected to succeed Camille Chamoun, was postponed until next Thursday.

There were increasing indications that the rebellion, which sent the troops to Lebanon in response to an appeal by Chamoun, might be ended soon by a compromise. Under the compromise, the 66-member chamber would elect a successor to Chamoun. It was Chamoun's attempt to revise the constitution, so he could get a second term, that caused the rebellion.

The "summit" negotiations started last Saturday when Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev demanded an immediate conference on the ground the landing of American troops in Jordan threatened to lead to World War III.

The United States, Britain and France replied on Tuesday—the day that Khrushchev had wanted to start the conference. They offered to hold the conference at a date to be agreed upon, under the auspices of the U. N. Security Council.

Khrushchev answered the Allies on Wednesday by saying he was prepared to attend a conference. He suggested it start in New York next Monday.

It was obviously impossible for the Allies to agree to start the conference so soon. For one thing, Secretary of State John Foster Dulles will be in London for a four-day meeting of the Middle Eastern treaty organization—the Baghdad Pact alliance—starting Monday.

For another, it will take time to decide on details including the countries to be represented. Khrushchev wants Arab countries, which he did not specify, to be invited. Presumably President Gamal Abdel Nasser of the United Arab Republic, whose ambition to dominate the Arab world is keeping the Middle East in turmoil, would get a bid.

A third reason for careful preparation is that Khrushchev's attendance at a New York meeting would make almost unprecedented preparations necessary to safeguard him. U. N. Security Council, the United States Secret Service, the Federal Bureau of Investigation, the New York police force and possibly even American Marines would be on hand—in addition to Khrushchev's own secret police.

There was one most favorable development. The dangerous tension in the Middle East and between the United States and Russia which followed the revolt in Iraq and the American and British landings in Lebanon, had greatly eased.

RED EYES ON THE SUN—Workers make adjustments on a huge chromosphere-photosphere telescope at the Sun Service of the Far Eastern Branch of the USSR Academy of Sciences, located near Ussuriysk. At present they are following a program set up for the International Geophysical Year. The modern telescopes are used for observing sun spots, chromosphere flares and solar prominences. One of the two scopes is used for filming in daylight while the other is used for cinematographing in the rays of hydrogen. Photo and caption information were furnished by an official Soviet source.

'Fix-it' Man Blamed for Explosions

BELLEVILLE, Ill. (AP)—A do-it-yourself householder may have caused six gas explosions in water mains which kept 2,500 residents jittery Thursday night, according to Fire Chief John Wade.

A householder may have inadvertently hooked a gas heating system to a water pipe, he said. The 2,500 residents were ordered from their homes for 6½ hours Thursday after the explosions in which four persons, one an 18-year-old baby, were burned. None was seriously hurt.

The city engineer's office reported many residents make their own gas connections without bothering to get a permit.

Investigators began a 70-block check of heating systems today in an effort to find how the gas got into the water system.

Miss Arkansas Valley Selected

CLARKSVILLE, Ark. (AP)—Girls from Little Rock and Van Buren captured preliminary honors in the Miss Arkansas Valley Pageant last night.

The talent winner was Martha Harris, daughter of Mrs. H. C. Harris of Little Rock. The swim suit winner was Donna Kilgore of Van Buren, a junior at the College of the Ozarks.

There are 22 contestants, and other preliminary judging event will be held tonight.

The pageant is one of the high lights of the 2-day Johnson County Peach Festival, which opened here yesterday.

The reigning Miss Arkansas Valley is 20-year-old Sandra Brown of Fort Smith. The new Miss Arkansas Valley will be crowned tomorrow night.

Final Candidate Speaking Monday

The final speaking for Hempstead candidates will be held Monday, July 28, at 8 p.m. in the Coliseum at Fair park. This will climax a tour that covered the entire county during the past couple of months.

Rotarians Hear About Jaycee Group

At yesterday's regular Rotary luncheon, Sonny Brannan, told members about the Jaycee Chamber of Commerce organization.

Mr. Brannan is outgoing president of the Jaycees.

The newly elected president, Raymond Byers, discussed Jaycee projects for the coming year.

Judy Franks, Miss Hope, told of her trip to the state contest. Miss Hospitality, Glenda Huelke, was also a guest of the club.

Other guests were Vernon Hays of Ft. Worth, Mitchell Wilburn of Tahoka, Tex., Elmer Harris of Stamps, Cecil Watson of Texarkana, Paul McClellan and Charles Wilson of Hope, and Joe Scott of Little Rock.

Children's Colony Injunction Denied

CONWAY, Ark. (AP)—Chancellor George O. Patterson today refused the request of Nabholz Construction Co. for a permanent injunction against picketing of the new Children's Colony under construction here.

Several weeks ago County Judge W. H. Sanson issued a temporary injunction against the picketing by representatives of Local 1222 International Hod Carriers, Construction and Common Laborers Union.

Voters Are Told Where to Cast Ballots Tuesday

Hempstead County voters will go to the polls Tuesday, July 29, in a preferential primary. The runoff will follow two weeks later.

Hope voters will go to the polls at 8 a. m. and voting will close at 6:30 p. m. Polling places here are:

Ward 1—Old Employment Office building on Walnut St.
Ward 1-A Fire Station
Ward 2—Courthouse
Ward 2A—Armory
Ward 3—City Hall
Ward 4—City Hall

Box 5—Veneer building on Front St. between Main and Walnut.
Box 6—Myers Bakery building on Walnut, next to Laundry.

All persons living west of Laurel and Walker Streets and south of the Missouri Pacific and east of the L&A Railway vote in Ward 1. Those living east of Laurel and Walker and south of the MOP, vote in Ward 1-A.

Residents south of the MOP and west of the L&A and east of Grady vote in Ward 2. Persons living south of the MOP west of S. Grady vote in Ward 2A. Those living north of the MOP and west of the Frisco Railway vote in Ward 3.

Residents east of the Frisco railway and north of the MOP east ballots in Ward 4.

All residents of DeRoan township living north of the MOP and outside Hope City limits vote in Box 5. Residents living outside of the city limits but in DeRoan township and south of the MOP vote in Box 6.

Central Committee Chairman W. S. Atkins cautioned voters to cast ballots in the precinct in which they reside. "Otherwise, the vote is not legal and would be thrown out in event of a contested election," he said.

Immediate Debt Ceiling Rise Likely

By B. L. LIVINGSTONE

WASHINGTON (AP)—House leaders, faced with an immediate rise in the national debt ceiling, are cracking down on deficit financing of legislative programs which add to the government's already vast debt.

First result of the crackdown has been the sidetracking by the House Rules Committee of a bill calling for a two-billion-dollar community public works loan program to be financed out of treasury borrowings.

The practice, commonly followed to finance programs calling for federal loans, bypasses the House Appropriations Committee. Instead of voting direct appropriations, Congress authorizes the federal agency concerned to borrow the necessary funds from the Treasury. The Treasury in turn must borrow the money, thereby increasing the public debt.

Concern over this form of public debt financing has been heightened by word that Secretary of the Treasury Anderson is due to come before Congress Monday to request another hike in the debt ceiling.

The legal debt limit, already raised temporarily to 200 billion dollars, would go up to 208 billion if the Treasury's request is granted.

The all-time high was a ceiling of 300 billion dollars in the latter part of World War II.

Budget deficits for the fiscal year just ended June 30, and in prospect for the current year, may make even the proposed increase barely adequate. The government went in the red nearly three billion dollars in the year which ended June 30, and the prospective deficit this year is 10 to 11 billion.

The House Rules Committee refused to act on the community public works bill unless its Treasury financing features were revised to make them subject to Appropriations Committee control.

Rules Committee Chairman Howard Smith (D-Va.) indicated the action was just the start of a crackdown on all such proposals.

Soviets Report Big Industrial Gains

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union moved into the second half of 1958 with its national industrial plan exceeded by 4 per cent and its crop prospects excellent, the Central Statistical Administration reported today.

The gross industrial output in the Soviet Union in the first six months of the year was up 10.5 per cent from the same period in 1957, the report said.

Voting Might Interest More People If It Was Against Law

By MARY ANITA LASETER

It has been said that more people might be more interested in voting if there was a law against it. Too often that is the shameful truth.

Fortunately, there is no all-inclusive law against free elections in our country. Unfortunately, though, many people do not take advantage of the privilege that is theirs to exercise their right to vote.

There are, necessarily, certain requirements which must be met. The voter must have paid a poll tax prior to October 1, 1957, to vote in the election next Tuesday. A voter who has become 21 years of age since last October 1 may vote in elections prior to October 1, 1958, without paying a poll tax, though.

Some people may miss out on a "mild vote" because the law was changed in the last legislature, but if it's any consolation to them, there have been others who never had such a vote either. This writer missed the boat—or, rather, the vote—by being less than a week too young the year she was 21.

Of course, men and women in the Armed Services of the United States do not have to pay poll tax. In case they are discharged before an election they may secure a poll tax even though the legal time may have expired.

The rules of the Democratic Party in Arkansas clearly state that a voter must be a citizen of the United States or have declared intention to be. A voter must have been a resident of the state for 12 months, of the county for six months, of a first or second class city for six months, and of a precinct or ward for 30 days in order to participate in elections in those respective areas.

Absentee ballots may be cast by qualified voters who will be absent from the precinct on election day or who are unable to go to the polls because of illness or physical disability. Application for such ballots must reach the county clerk not more than 15 days before election or not earlier than 20 days if the election is outside the United States.

Though we may not know it, or simply ignore it, this is a law. Anyone desiring to vote must exhibit his poll tax receipt or a certified copy of same, or his name must appear in the printed list of voters, or proof must be given that it is a "mild vote." Also, it is not a legal election unless polling booths are used.

Provision has been made for anyone who can not read or write or by reason of physical disability is unable to mark his ballot. Such a person may have assistance of at least two judges in preparation of the ballot. But before help is given, all other voters must leave the room.

It is a misdemeanor to hand out or give away campaign cards, placards, or other articles intended to influence voters, within 100 feet of the polls on election day. No writ-in votes are allowed in primary elections—only in General elections.

Sometimes a person is more anxious to vote against a candidate than to vote for an opposing candidate. But whatever the reason for voting, it is the right, the duty, and the privilege of every good citizen to cast a ballot according to his individual beliefs.

If you don't help make the cake, you shouldn't complain about the flavor. So, Vote As You Please, but Please Vote!

To Investigate McClellan Crash

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Civil Aeronautics Board has assigned six experts to investigate the Arkansas crash in which four men, including a son of Sen. John L. McClellan, were killed.

The CAB said a special investigation was planned because the Beechcraft Travelair involved was of a new and distinctive type.

The CAB said a special investigation of its Miami office would head the investigation and would be assisted by C. F. Stillwagon and William D. Bushnell of the Kansas City and Fort Worth offices; engine expert Frank Taylor, structures expert J. H. Hoover and Robert W. Christ, chief of the Hearing and Reports Division, all from Washington.

The twin-engine private plane crashed near Conway, Ark. Tuesday with Little Rock attorney James H. McClellan at the controls. McClellan and the three other occupants were killed.

Calls 'Hey Fatty' to Future King

LONDON (AP)—A little boy glared at the future King of England and said, "Hey, Fatty, get off my foot." The future King of England, annoyed, let fly a few punches.

That is the story reported by the London News Chronicle today from the playing field of Cheam School, where 9-year-old Prince Charles is a student.

Asked about the incident, a Buckingham Palace spokesman replied: "How can we know if it's true or not? We can't check with anyone down there."

When Queen Elizabeth II and Prince Philip entered their only son at Cheam last year they asked for him to be treated as just another schoolboy. That's the way Cheam is treating him.

Large or his age, Charles might just conceivably be called "Fatty." The remark could easily spring to the lips of someone who got stomped by Charles in a game.

Spa Hospital Included in Money Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Appropriations Committee was reported today to have taken action that would require the Army to keep the Army-Navy Hospital at Hot Springs, Ark., in operation for another year.

The committee, as it has done for several years, inserted a provision in the Defense Department appropriation bill directing the Army to continue to operate the hospital, aides of Sen. John L. McClellan (D-Ark.) said. The Army has sought for four years to close the hospital.

The bill includes slightly more than a million dollars for operation of the hospital for the year ending next June 30. It was reported today.

Closing of the hospital has been strenuously opposed by McClellan and Rep. W. F. Norrell (D-Ark.). McClellan is a member of the Senate Appropriations Committee but was not present at today's session on account of the death earlier this week of his son, James McClellan, in a plane crash. The committee acted in his absence.

Norrell had sought to insert the same provision when the House appropriations committee was considering the bill but was blocked by objections from Rep. Gerald R. Ford (R-Mich.).

If the Senate passes the bill with the hospital requirement, the measure then will go to a House-Senate Conference Committee.

Fever 110, Miracle If Youth Lives

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—Donald Kneel, 12, lies on a cooling bed at Good Samaritan Hospital. His face is inflamed and swollen. His lips and mouth are so parched he is unable to talk.

If the boy lives he will make medical history. He was admitted Wednesday morning with a fever so high doctors were unable to measure it. A thermometer in his mouth registered 110 degrees, as high as it would go.

Attending physicians immediately packed the boy in ice. They said the fever was caused by a very rare type blood clot called cavernous sinus thrombosis. Before the advent of antibiotic drugs it was almost always fatal.

After 24 hours in an ice pack, the boy's fever was reduced to 105 degrees and then to 103.

The boy's father, Lowell Kneel of nearby Phillipsburg, said Donald complained of a small bump on the back of his head Sunday day. His parents administered ice packs and said he seemed all right Monday and Tuesday.

But Kneel said when he returned from his job as a taxi cab driver Wednesday morning, his son's face was terribly swollen. They rushed him to the hospital.

Will Try to Stay in Water 35 Hours

MEMPHIS (AP)—Motorcycle cop Ed Buffaloe, wearing an aqualing, will dive to the bottom of a swimming pool here tonight and try to stay there 35 hours.

He goes under at 10 p.m. If he can stay down until after 8 a.m. Sunday he will be the unofficial world champion in underwater endurance with skin diver equipment.

He also will be a year older. Tomorrow is his 37th birthday.

President Warns Russia U. S. Will Oppose Charge

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower has put Soviet Premier Khrushchev on notice that he faces a stiff fight in a U. N. summit conference if he tries to press his charge of Middle Eastern aggression against the United States.

The warning was set forth clearly in a firm, brisk note which the President sent to Khrushchev Friday and the White House promptly made public.

James C. Hagerty, White House press secretary, said Eisenhower definitely would attend a U. N. Security Council meeting of heads of government if all arrangements were worked out. But the President himself told Khrushchev that it still remains to be determined whether such a meeting is in fact generally desired by the governments of the 11-nation Council.

Eisenhower proposed that two steps should be taken now toward a summit gathering. Officials said Khrushchev agrees and all goes well otherwise they thought "a meeting might be set for some two weeks hence, probably around Aug. 11."

"The first step proposed by Eisenhower was that the regular Security Council representatives in New York 'should exchange views' to ascertain 'a meeting of the kind and under conditions I suggest is generally acceptable'."

If agreement is reached on that, Eisenhower said the next step would be to set a summit meeting date which would be generally satisfactory. As to conditions, Eisenhower declared that the meeting must be held within the framework and under the rules of the Security Council, which would have responsibility for determining what nonmember nations should be invited to sit in for consultation.

Khrushchev had proposed in a note Wednesday that leaders of Indian and the Arab states be invited. If the Council should issue this invitation, officials indicated the United States would insist on invitations also for Israel and probably such Baghdad Pact allies as Turkey, Iran and Pakistan.

Eisenhower told Khrushchev the United States agrees that the proposed meeting "should be limited to a discussion of the problems of the Middle East, including the causes of those problems."

It was at this point that Eisenhower plainly indicated a summit meeting could not be confined to Soviet charges that the United States and Britain committed aggression by sending troops into the Middle East.

Eisenhower added: "In my opinion the instability of peace and security is in large measure due to the jeopardy in which small nations are placed. It would be the purpose of the United States to deal with the specific incidents you raise within this broad context. To do otherwise would be to be blind to the teaching of history."

Administration officials agreed that the effect of this was to put Khrushchev on notice that if he follows through in the meeting with his aggression charges, Eisenhower will be prepared to strike back with the full range of U. S. accusations against the Soviet Union for making Communist captives of one country after another since the early days of World War II.

Woman Fatally Injured at Monette

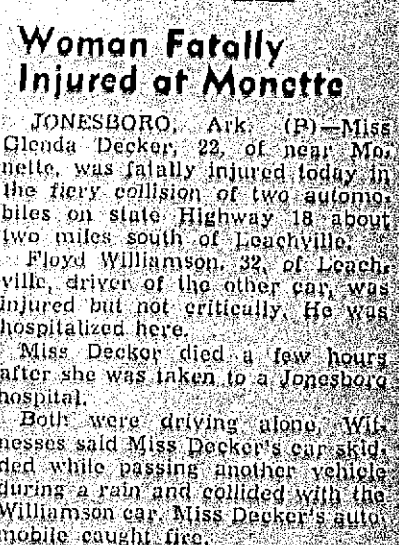

JONESBORO, Ark. (P)—Miss Glenda Decker, 22, of near Monette, was fatally injured today in the fiery collision of two automobiles on state Highway 18 about two miles south of Leachville.

Floyd Williamson, 32, of Leachville, driver of the other car, was injured but not critically. He was hospitalized here.

Miss Decker died a few hours after she was taken to a Jonesboro hospital.

Both were driving alone. Witnesses said Miss Decker's car skidded while passing another vehicle during a rain and collided with Williamson's car. Miss Decker's automobile caught fire.

Wants Red Data on Tunnel to Alaska

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash., disclosed today he is seeking detailed information on a Russian proposal for construction of a rail and ship tunnel under Bering Strait to connect America and Asia.

Magnuson, chairman of the Senate Commerce Committee, said he has asked Soviet engineers Arkady Markov for a complete report on the proposal for a tunnel under the Bering Strait.

Markov, of the U. S. S. R. Power Institute in the Soviet Academy of Sciences, proposed joint U. S. Soviet action to construct such a tunnel.

When the information he obtained, Magnuson said he wants to discuss it with officials of Canada and Alaska at a meeting next fall of the Alaska International Highway Commission, of which he is vice chairman.

In his letter to Markov, Magnuson requested a study of the Bering Strait tunnel proposal be made "in the form of the century's first New York railway map."

H. H. Garrison, father of New York Gov. W. Averell Harriman, said the senator said a study of the Harriman proposal left him "deeply intrigued" by the possibilities.

HOW DESPERATE CAN MY OPPONENTS BECOME?

They have constantly alleged that a child was prosecuted while I was Deputy Prosecuting Attorney in the Municipal Court of Hope, Arkansas, for throwing paper wads at a ball game. The facts are these: At a county basketball tournament at Guernsey a serious fight occurred between two young men in the stands. A Hempstead County school superintendent (who had a Deputy Sheriff's commission) arrested the boys. The Municipal Judge fined one of them for starting the fight. Ask yourself why my desperate opponents, particularly one of them, have deliberately failed to reveal the facts.

Clean government is made by clean men, who campaigned in a clean and truthful manner.

Solicit your vote and support on my own record as an honest, fair, sober and hard working lawyer, who has lived among you all of his life and I will appreciate your vote on July 29.

Chapter GGXVI

Riley Connor and Johnny Honsinger came out of the school together, the last to emerge. Honsinger stopped 30 feet from them. "Get down the street with your friends," Connor growled.

"No," said Honsinger, shaking his head, "right here, now."

"They," cried Johnny Honsinger, "the old man's asking for a showdown, Connor."

Sheriff Wes Parker came through the batwing doors of the Pleasure Palace. He faced Honsinger, but was not too close to Connor and Honsinger.

"I'm sorry, Tom," he said, "I know Wes and Honsinger. You're Riley Connor's man. He brought you here."

"Worse," said Parker, "I'm all to the man from Idaho."

Connor threw out his left hand. "His real name's Lee Ring," he said. "He's the man who killed your woman."

Honsinger could wait no longer. His right hand became a blur of motion. Only the fact that Honsinger was turned sideways to him kept that first bullet from being the last one. The bullet burned across Honsinger's chest, but did not cripple him.

Rossier's entire attention was on Lee Ring. Rossier's next years were long gone, but this was the one time in his entire life that he had to be fast. He knew, even as his thumb whipped back the hammer of his revolver, that he had not drawn faster in all of his life. He fired once at Lee Ring. Then his gun was swiveling.

Connor was going for his gun. He never got it. Rossier's bullet crashed through Connor's head.

Then Rossier was knocked backwards by Johnny Honsinger's second bullet. The killer's marshal could not be spotted two shots. His first had merely grazed Rossier, but his second went through Rossier's arm, tore into his side and having been fired at the pitched battle between augmented vigilantes and the syndicate did not take place. The syndicate was a Hydra-headed monster, but Riley Connor had been its central head. Its fangs had been Johnny Honsinger and hidden the sheriff.

The exodus was going on even as Rossier lay on his stomach on his bed in the hotel. His shirt had been stripped from his upper body and his hands gripped the bars in the iron bedstead while Dr. Kent probed and extracted the bullet from under his shoulder blade.

He knelted the ends of the bandage, reached under and turned Rossier over on his back. "You'll be all right, too. In about three weeks,"

"Three weeks," exclaimed Rossier.

"We'll feed you," said Moody. "And if you think you need a nurse, there's one up the bay."

"Mrs. Tavenner."

"Uh-uh, her name isn't Tavenner, it seems. The thinab blabbed everything he'd ever done in his life. Seems he married a woman in New Orleans and never bothered to get a divorce from her. That makes his marriage to the young woman down the hill kind of illegal."

Moody went out of the room. Dr. Kent tossed his probe, a pair of scissors and a scalpel into his bag. "I'll look in on you around supper time." He picked up his bag and left the room.

Susan appeared in the doorway. She looked at Rossier and he looked at her. A great weariness, seemed through him, a peaceful weariness.

"It's over," Susan said. "All of it."

"All except the memories," said Rossier.

"You won't be busy," she went on. "You won't have time for memories. Except at night when you sit on your porch and look out over your ranch."

"The ranch," said Rossier. "It never was real. A home without a woman is no home at all."

"Perhaps there'll be another woman."

He looked at her and a faint smile came over his lips. Yes, there could be another woman. It was in his eyes as he looked at her and it was in her eyes as she returned his look. Time, time was all that was needed. And they had so much time.

When to Fish as shown by SOLUNAR TABLES
by John Alden Knight

The schedule of Solunar Periods, as printed below, has been taken from John Alden Knight's Solunar Tables. Plan your days so that you will be fishing in good territory or hunting in good cover during these times. If you wish to find the best sport that each day has to offer.

The Major Periods are shown in boldface type. These begin at the times shown and last for an hour and a half or two hours thereafter. The Minor Periods, shown in regular type, are of somewhat shorter duration.

Committee Told No Favors Received

WASHINGTON (AP) — Leo Wolff, former president of Ray-Jane Worsted, Inc., stood his ground today that the $41,284 penalty rebate the company got on a government contract didn't depend on influence of Sherman Adams or anyone else.

In fact, Wolff added, "A good public question to ask is 'why didn't we get interest on our money too?'"

The black bass, both small-mouth and largemouth, is North America's most popular game fish. More people fish for bass each season than for all the other freshwater species combined. While a great many anglers confine themselves to artificial lures, probably the majority go in for live fishing exclusively.

Bait fishing is the simplest form of bass fishing. It can be done with just about any kind of tackle. However, there are some tricks of the trade in bait fishing which can add greatly, not only to the fun you can have but also to the size of your catch.

First off, it is important to place your bait on your hook in such a way that it will stay alive. A dead bait is not nearly as productive, as a rule, as a live one. Minnows and shiners can be hooked lightly under the dorsal fin; stone catfish through the lips, crayfish through the tail, hellgramites under the collar, and so on. Even the lowly angle worm can be kept alive for a long time if the hook is inserted below the collar, leaving the head and collar unharmed.

It is important, while bait fishing, to show your bait to as many fish as possible. Anchoring the boat or standing in one spot, while the bait rests quietly on the bottom, is not, as a rule, the most productive way to fish for bass. In a river, it is a good plan to drift through the pools. In a pond or a lake, row upwind and then let the wind move your boat slowly across to the downwind bank.

If you are wading, move slowly along the shore line, reeling your bait often enough to make sure that it is moving and not lodged on the bottom. If there is a current, then the fly will keep your bait on the move; if the water is still, cast the bait well out and then retrieve the line through the guides of your rod.

Of course, in a river the motion of the water helps to keep the bait in the water. The great majority of the natural food in any body of water is in the shallows. All right, at those times it is best to fish shallow. Water around the weed beds, shoals and rocky bars. Generally, you won't find the majority of the fish in deep water during a Solunar Period.

Base in a lake have the tendency to select resting stations in places where they live when not actively on the feed — in fairly deep water where they can find congenial temperatures. Thus, between Solunar Periods that is the place to look for them.

With the arrival of a Solunar Period, the fish become hungry and they move about in search of food. The great majority of the natural food in any body of water is in the shallows. INDIAN QUEEN—Wearing the traditional costume of Tribal Queen of the Navajo Indians is Charlotte Barbara Anderson, a full-blooded member of the "Tascheem" clan, will take part in all events in the Miss Universe Pageant in Long Beach, Calif., although she will not be competing for any of the prizes.

SUCCEEDS STITCH—Groggins, Pierre XV Cardinal Agagianian, above, has been named pro-pope of the Sacred Congregation for the Propagation of the Faith, governing body for missionary activities of the Roman Catholic church. Appointment of the Armenian priest by Pope Plus XII fills the post vacated by the recent death of Chicago's Samuel Cardinal Stritch.

STRENGTHEN YOUR FAITH

Through Regular Church Worship

REAPING

"And they took the fruit of the land in their hands and brought it down to us." Deut. 1:25. Isn't that just like God's children... always ready to lend a helping hand, or to give an extra portion — all if necessary. When the crop is ripe, the reaping done and the bounties stored away, do you ever stop to thank God? Maybe your inventory still shows all you ever possessed. Better realize it all came from God and give back a portion. How is it right now with you and yours? It is reaping time but what will your harvest be? Do you support His cause, His church, or, are you one of the would-be self-sufficient? Why not begin right now to use your harvest to help bring in the Kingdom?
